Billetto

Billetto is a Danish company founded in 2009 with the vision to "Share Live" experiences and make online ticket handling and social promotion accessible for everyone. Their platform makes it free and easy for everyone to host and promote events, where guests can register and pay online. Billetto can be used for e.g. festivals, zumba lessons, concerts, workshops, conferences and sport events - in short, all types of events.

The number 1 event discovery experience out there.

Currently, live in UK, Denmark, Sweden and Norway.

Miinto Group

miinto is an online fashion retail aggregate present in 5 countries worldwide. Miinto hosts the online sale of more than 2.400 independent fashion retailers and brands exceeding 180.000 fashion products from thousands of well known fashion brands.

Background

Miinto was developed from an idea generated by two Danish high-school entrepreneurs, Konrad A. Kierklo and Mike Radoor. The concept won second prize in the national Young Enterprise competition, and attracted the attention of successful businesmen Carsten Mikkelsen, angel investor in the London-based Internet success JustEat.com and several other european startups, and Jesper Buch, Leading Co-founder of JustEat.com.

In spring 2009, with the vital backing and investment of Mikkelsen and Buch, miinto was launched in Denmark and has since witnessed successful launches and very steep growth in other markets including Norway, Sweden, Spain and the Netherlands.

In 2012, miinto is present in 5 countries, and expects to exceed 50 million Euro in turnover.

SimpleSite is a website building tool focused on absolute simplicity and maximum usability for people with no tech or design skills. Using a very simple user-interface and a template-based system, the user can create a full-featured website for sales, blogging, networking or presentation in just a few clicks.

Founded in 2003 by the two brothers and serial entrepreneurs Jacob and Morten Elk, SimpleSite is based on a simple business idea of creating value and opportunity in a digital world for people with no tech skills. The company is modelled on lean business principles for maximum scalability, growth and technical functionality.

Today SimpleSite holds a strong international presence with local language sites and customer support in 23 countries, including the US, Northern Europe, Russia, Poland, Czech Republic, Brazil, Turkey, Indonesia and Malaysia. Currently 300.000+ new SimpleSite websites are being built and launched across the world every month, and the company recently received $2M in funding for an ambitious 2012/2013 further expansion plan.

SimpleSite counts 40+ staff. A strong company culture of lean thinking and profitable growth runs through all departments as well as a focus on opportunity and development of internal talent as well as the product.

Tradeshift

edit

As a platform for all your business interactions, Tradeshift helps companies run more efficiently, harnessing the power of their network to create new value from old processes like invoicing, payments and workflow.

For smaller companies, a free account with apps like e-invoicing can become a route to getting paid faster or even open doors like dynamic discounting. Meanwhile, Tradeshift Apps allow them to securely link in other key processes like online accounting in seconds.

For enterprises that work with tens of thousands of companies like this, they find themselves already connected to partners of all sizes on a single, global, 100% electronic platform.

Tradeshift is the first step toward a smarter, better, network-powered business.

Tradeshift was founded in 2009 and launched in 2010, with the goal to change how business is done. Headquartered in San Francisco, Tradeshift has offices in Copenhagen, London, and Amsterdam. Tradeshift employs 70 staff across 18 different nationalities

Vopium

Vopium is a leading innovator in mobile global communications. Through our technology, we enable mobile phone users to make international calls at the reduced price and exceptional sound quality of a local phone call — with or without the need of a WiFi or 3G connection.

Vopium's free to download, award winning mobile app is currently available on Apple iPhone, Android, BlackBerry, Nokia Symbian, Windows Mobile and Java devices - over 900 types of mobile phones.

Tanveer Sharif, Imran Sadiq and Brian Sussemiehl founded Vopium in 2006. The company employs approximately 100 people in its Copenhagen, Luxembourg and Lahore offices and is listed on the NYSE Euronext Paris Exchange.

Click A Taxi

Click A Taxi is the world's largest taxi service provider. Click A Taxi is currently the largest taxi service in the world, covering more than one thousand localities across the UK, Ireland, Scandinavia and continental Europe.

Our consumer app The main way most members of the public come into contact with Click A Taxi is through our consumer app. The application works by using the GPS function of the user's mobile phone to locate them on a map. The user can then choose to book a taxi to come as soon as possible to that location or select another location by typing an address into the search field or moving the map. Users can also book a taxi up to twenty four hours in advance. The app is enjoying success across three platforms: iPhone, Android and Windows Phone.

Beyond the app But Click A Taxi is more than just a consumer app. We're building the world's largest global taxi aggregation service. The Click A Taxi system is designed to integrate into a range of different business platforms to allow our partners to book taxis for their customers from restaurants, hotels, flight bookings and many more. Click A Taxi is doing the work behind the scenes to make the users entire travel experience seamless.

Click A Taxi handpicks quality taxi companies Click A Taxi collaborates with only one carefully selected taxi company in each location. So every time you book a taxi, you know your journey will be comfortable and safe. All taxi partners must meet our high standards on a range of criteria including service, prices, size of fleet and quality of service.

Flattr is a micropayment system - more specifically, a microdonation system.

Flattr is a project started by Peter Sunde and Linus Olsson. Users are able to pay a small amount every month (minimum 2 euros) and then click Flattr buttons on sites to share the money they paid among those sites, comparable to an Like button with money on top.

The word "flattr" is used as a verb, to indicate payments through the Flattr system - so when a user clicks a Flattr button and they are logged in to the Flattr site, they are said to be "flattring" the page they are on. Sunde said, "We want to encourage people to share money as well as content."

Foap AB

We turn your iPhone photos into Dollars.

We are a Swedish start up which helps you to sell your iPhone photos. Snap or upload a photo via our iPhone App and if it gets approved it will be published at www.foap.com for editorial/commercial sale for companies which are looking for marketing material. Each photo can be sold unlimited amount of times, and we split the revenue with on a 50/50 basis. The current price is $10 per photo that is licensed.

The goal is to build a image database that has a constant massive inflow of photos since we know that photo buying companies are looking for more variation. Also, we want to build a database consisting of more natural and local photos, and avoid feeding the market with something that it's already overwhelmed of: that is typical arranged stock modeling photos.

Conferize

Conferize - one point of destination for all things related to conferences.

As our world continues to get more complex, more connected and ever more globalized we are under pressure to adapt and change, to learn and be inspired, and constantly build our personal network. The conference is the perfect solution: A social space like no other, created for knowledge-based interaction, human enterprise and sheer excitement.

Yet when it comes to conferences in the digital age, much can be improved. What Conferize is about is the attempt to bring transparency to conferences themselves, as well as the influencers and knowledge related to conferences. The service helps you find conferences based on your interests, helps you find people who are attending which events. It also helps you follow speakers and industry leaders so you can always stay in the loop.

GameAnalytics

GameAnalytics is a powerful analytics engine for game studios that supports the full life cycle from acquisition to retention to monetization of players - with a particular emphasis on user experience.

GameAnalytics has been built to specifically support the very data intensive games industry with tailor made reporting such as completion time per level, 3d heatmaps of in-game evens, and a pricing model that allows developers to track an unlimited amount of in-game player behavior.

Good news for Unity developers as GameAnalytics comes with plug n play capabilities for the popular game engine.

Graduateland is creating a large recruitment network of international universities, by offering a free plug'n'play career portal for their intranet.

Recruiting the most talented students and graduates across borders is a resource demanding and time consuming process.

For young academics it can be cumbersome to obtain a substantial overview of relevant career opportunities because sites are either geographically limited or not targeted their experience level.

Universities do not have the time nor the resources to maintain a sufficient job portal for their students and alumni, or they have to pay for external operators.

Graduateland is bringing together these three stakeholders, and creating a large career network for students and graduates.

Universities implement a free plug'n'play portal, which allows their students and alumni to browse relevant career opportunities on a global level, as well as present themselves via a CV database. Employers can promote their vacancies or perform employer branding, either broadly or very precisely due to targeting via the users's detailed profiles. Employers buy bulks of Graduateland Credits, which can be distributed across any portal on any service. The universities earn a cut of the revenue that is generated via their portal, making the portal a source of revenue rather than an expense.

Sepior edit

Sepior has developed a ground-breaking solution for companies wanting to protect cloud data. Sepior offers a pure cloud-based solution that uses strong encryption and does not rely on trust in any third party; neither does it require any on-premise hardware or software as the encryption gateway.

Sepior enables organizations to encrypt data going into cloud solutions in a very flexible manner, and takes care of the related key management. This allows employees to continue using popular cloud services like DropBox, Box, Google Drive while still protecting against data breaches. For providers Sepior delivers a Key Management as a Service that seamlessly integrates into your SaaS/cloud solution.

Wallmob

WALLMOB A/S (PLC) is a Danish-based company that primarily focuses on POS systems, but with very few similarities to the conventional global POS Suppliers.

Increased multichannel competition and changes in buying behavior has created a need for rethinking the Point of Sale. WALLMOB's POS is build on a new platform that has been developed to meet business demands to optimize sales and earnings, and at the same time improve the shopping experience as well as customer loyalty. Furthermore, the WALLMOB POS integrates with multiple payment methods such as mobile payments, numerous wallets, apps and e-Commerce.

WALLMOB was founded in 2012 by senior executives from the retail and IT industries who joined forces in a common mission: to build a POS that meets new market standards. In September 2012 WALLMOB was funded by Venture Kapital ApS.

Kvittar

Every day stores and restaurant in Sweden, by norm, print enough paper to cover a distance from Malmoe to London*. This despite the fact that almost all receipts are digital in their original format. The receipt is a proof that you own something but still today this is a small piece of paper.

Kvittar is a system that digitize receipts and offers a digital infrastructure. This digital infrastructure can reduce administrative costs for paper receipts by reducing the consumption of paper, changing of receipts and lack of customers receipts.

Users that are connected to Kvittar get receipts digital from point of sale system that are integrated with Kvittar DRS (Digital Receipt System). Each user will get an own secure and private profile from where they can print their receipts, get them in PDF or export the to XML or CVS format. At the webpage the receipts are easy to search for and add annotations.

Kvittar won the local nordic Seedcamp 2009.

At Planeto we create fun trivia games and knowledge platforms for a worldwide audience. The company was founded in 2009 by Martin Walfisz and Magnus Robertsson, with the goal of becoming the world's leading developer of online trivia and knowledge-focused entertainment experiences.

As people play our trivia games, we can quantify their knowledge to build a global database of experts: the world's knowledge graph. Our vision is to give everyone on earth instant access to an expert on any topic.

Martin Walfisz is the founder and former CEO of Massive Entertainment, one of the world's premier PC game development studios acquired by Ubisoft Entertainment in 2008. During his twelve years as head of Massive Entertainment he gained tremendous experiences in game production, design and marketing, which is now put to good use at Planeto.

Zendesk

Zendesk provides an integrated on-demand helpdesk - customer support portal solution based on the latest Web 2.0 technologies and design philosophies.

The product has an elegant, minimalist design implemented in Ruby on Rails and provides seamless integration of the back-end helpdesk SaaS to a company's online customer-facing web presence, including hosted support email-ticket integration, online forums, RSS and widgets. This is unusual, because most SaaS helpdesk solutions focus exclusively on the backend helpdesk and treat the Web as an afterthought.

The system also leverages Web 2.0 ideas on the backend, such as tag based categorization throughout instead of the usual pre-defined drop down lists, RSS feeds for every customized view and a complete REST/JSON API for virtually every entity in the system.
